2. Fiction and documentary short films made by Italian and foreign authors that reflect on the theme of the current edition are admitted to the Competition.

The Give Peace A Screen competition welcomes works that deal with all the themes included in the nonviolent culture: opposition to war, education for peace, denunciation of injustices, struggles for the affirmation of rights, the search for a nonviolent relationship with Nature . During the festival the films will be presented divided into thematic areas.

3. Films made no earlier than 1 January 2021 and whose duration does not exceed 30 minutes, including opening and closing credits, are eligible.

Two works for each director can be entered in the festival.

4. Only those who, on the expiry date of the announcement (15 July 2023), have not completed the thirty-fifth year of age will be admitted to the Competition. Authors over 35 and works longer than 30 minutes may eventually be selected for the Out of Competition section.

5. All works not in Italian must be accompanied by a file of subtitles in Italian and English in .srt format and by the list of dialogues in Italian and/or English. Works already entered in other festivals are also admitted.

6. All the works received and considered compliant with these regulations will be viewed by a commission which, at its sole discretion, will choose those admitted to the Competition and presented to the Jury which will award the prizes. The selected works will be evaluated by a Jury which, at its sole discretion, will award the prizes:
